Videos

In the latest installment of "Wise Words," Bob Wise, president of the Alliance for Excellent Education and former governor of West Virginia, talks about the 1.2 million students from the class of 2008 who will not graduate with their peers. He says that these students will cost the nation over $300 billion in lost wages and revenues over the course of their lifetimes.

Policy Updates

The signatories to "A Broader, Bolder Approach to Education" are diverse national leaders from all political and policy spectrums, who have come to agree that the policy embodied in NCLB has failed. The release of the "Broader, Bolder" statement marks the beginning of a long-term effort to persuade federal, state, and local policymakers to consider a more enriching framework as they work to support every child's education.
