

The Diploma-Minded Principal

A professional learning experience for school leaders

Feb. 24, 2016 | 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. - Session full

Additional date added due to high demand

Feb. 25, 2016 | 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

Location: ESC of Central Ohio, 2080 Citygate Dr., Columbus, OH 43219

For additional information, contact Janet Gillig at janet.gillig@escoco.org or 614.753.4650

Schools achieve what they set out to achieve.

The National Dropout Prevention Center seeks to help schools and communities graduate more students and is proud to present a full-day professional learning experience designed to help school leaders create conditions conducive for success.

Principals, Assistant Principals and other school leaders will be challenged to become “diploma-minded”, utilizing the research of the center to enhance their work in helping students graduate from our schools.

Participants in this program will enjoy the interactive nature of the day’s work, led by 2009 National Principal of the Year Dr. Mark Wilson. Participants will leave the event with a set of actions with which to move forward, an understanding of the NDPC research, and practical applications to help students be successful.

The Diploma-Minded Principal will focus on the practical application of the NDPC’s Fifteen Effective Strategies in Reducing Dropouts. Those who participate will leave with valuable “how-to’s” that can be used right away, as well as an understanding of the long-term processes and the opportunity to pre-register for the first Ohio regional conference “The Diploma Planning Institute” on June 20-21, 2016.

School leaders from all school-levels are encouraged to attend these conferences and become more “diploma-minded” together!

Registration: <http://goo.gl/forms/sJorGMzGDB>

Limited availability for free attendance.
Please use the code DMP when registering.

